

Tenth VOC Conference
October 14th 2022
Tilburg University

Call for Papers

Scope

The Dutch/Flemish Classification Society, VOC, aims at communicating scientific principles, methods, and applications of ordination and classification. The VOC is a member of the International Federation of Classification Societies (IFCS).

The VOC would like to invite you to attend its tenth conference. Contributed papers can be submitted on topics such as classification, clustering, scaling, data analysis, machine learning, pattern recognition, statistical modelling, and applications of classification and data analysis.

Fee

Participation is free for VOC-members and PhD-students and costs 30€ for non-members. The participation fee includes membership; PhD-students can become a member for free.

Important Dates

September 23: deadline for abstract submissions
September 30: notification of acceptance of presentation
October 7: registration deadline non-presenting participants

Time

The meeting will start 11am and end 5pm
